man Peter B. Hodges. He said the cost of one (a new police station) ranges from $900,000 to $1.2 million; the second (the conversion of several facilities) will cost in the neighborhood of $1.2 million.

Selectmen accepted the report as presented and disbanded the committee with the board's compliments on a job well done. Selectmen Chairman John DeCosta noted there probably will be no action taken on the report at this year's annual town meeting other than to have voters made aware of the committee's findings, as the results of the report will have to be studied and evaluated by the board and the police chief on the cost factors.

In making the report, Chairman Hodges commended publicly the architects David Crowley Associates on their excellent study and proposal to help Selectmen reach a decision. Hodges noted the committee toured a police facility in Kingston which was similar to Mattapoisett in population and needs.

Hodges also noted that the cost of about $1.2 million to convert Center School to Town Hall administrative offices does not include the cost to relocate several classrooms to Old Hammondtown School. The committee had no figures on this cost; however, Hodges said there may be funding available for this purpose.

Presto Friends:

Why is it that some diamonds when you look at them seem to really catch your eye? They sparkle, break up light into the spectral colors and just plainly stand out. The answer is two-fold, COLOR and CUT. Let's discuss color this week.

The G.I.A. (Gemological Institute of America) uses the letters D through Z to grade how much yellow is in the diamond, D being colorless and Z being light yellow. The more yellow in the diamond means less light is returned to the eye and the diamond, therefore, is not as lively and appears darker overall than a diamond in the D.E.F. colorless range.

The G.I.A. color chart breaks down a diamond into one of 23 grades. The price of a diamond can change thousands of dollars depending on color, assuming clarity and carat weight are the same in the two diamonds.

Merchandisers very often do not mention color grades in the diamond sale. If they do, they use obsolete, vague old world terms such as blue white, jager, finest white.

Are you buying from a Jeweler or are you buying from a merchandiser who is not capable of determining the color grade of his own stock? A simple test is to go into the Jeweler who sold you your diamond and ask for a color grade in G.I.A. terms.

So if you want your diamond to stand out from the rest, buy only from a legitimate Jeweler.

Serving on the committee with Hodges, who is also a member of the town's Finance Committee, were Building Inspector David Crook, Council on Aging Chairman Robert Coquillette, Police Lt. James A. Santos and resident Bernard F. Talty. Police Chief James Moran aided the committee by offering his expertise as a consultant.

Hodges expressed his opinion that there would have to be some tax adjustment; possibly a 2½ override if the town decides to "go for the brass ring for a police station relocation and capital improvements all at once".

The full final report follows:

On December 12, 1985 the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen established a Police Station Evaluation and Needs Committee and charged the committee with the following phases of review:

I. Assess the present Police Department facilities.

II. Assess the present and near future facility needs of the Police Department.

III. Develop a long-term Police Department facilities needs plan.

On February 25, 1986 the committee reported to the Selectmen on Phases I and II. It was indicated at that time that the present facility housing the Police Department was inadequate and several alternatives were suggested. As a result of this meeting, the committee was asked to continue its study of Phase III.

The several alternatives proposed at that time included the following:

Enjoy the best of two worlds just over the Mattapoisett line in Rochester country. This 6 year old ranch features 2 bedrooms, fireplaced living room, spacious kitchen and dining area, bright natural-wood family room and bath. Wonderful retirement or starter home on 1 1/2 acres of private treed land. $155,000.

FAIRHAVEN

Views across the fields to Shaw's Cove make this 2 bedroom antique Cape a gem. Set on 1 acre of land, this home offers living room, dining room with fireplaces in each, country kitchen, pantry, modern bath. Expandable 2nd floor would offer wonderful water views. $129,000.

1. Construct a new police facility in a new location.
2. Add on to the present facility.
3. Acquire, by eminent domain or other means, additional property in the immediate area adjacent to the present police facility.
4. Convert a portion of Center School to town administrative offices and convert and provide the Town Hall for exclusive police use.

Further investigation led the committee to conclude that alternative #2 would not be possible because of a minimum of land available and alternative #3 would be too costly, based on prices of recent real estate transfers in the immediate area. This alternative would also be too time consuming.

Therefore, we feel that alternatives #1 and #4 remain the most viable.

A new police station, based on both written and verbal information presented to the committee, and visual observation of a facility which Mattapoisett police personnel indicated would be suitable for their needs, will cost between $900,000 and $1,200,000. The committee has not been presented with any detail drawings or estimates which would indicate that costs of a new facility would be less that the aforementioned range.

Alternative #4, which involves the conversion of several facilities, has been priced at $1,155,359. This amount does not include any additional expenditures to buildings other than Center School and the Town Hall. There is, however, the possibility that additional funds might be available from state sources should this alternative be pursued.

The committee wishes to point out that alternative #4 provides benefits for not only the police department but other town administrative functions who on occasion have indicated that there are needs for additional space and improved working conditions in order to provide desired services.

Also, the conversion provides up-graded and more convenient locations for those departments providing services relating to Health, Veterans and the Elderly.

It is also important to consider that a portion of the costs associated with the conversion must be incurred at some point in the future, if these buildings are going to continue to be functional and safe.

The committee suggests that the Selectmen review the design report in detail, in order to have a comparison available when analyzing other information when, and if, it becomes available.

Finally, it is the committee's feeling that funding for this project is only available through an adjustment to the tax rate. We have received no information of alternative sources of funding. The funds are not and will not be available from foreseeable operating funds.

In other business, Selectmen:

HEARD A REPORT from the three members of the board who attended the meeting in Lakeville on Monday, March 2nd, on the state DEQE proposal to revise the waterway licenses and regulations.

Chairman DeCosta said there was a sizeable representation from Mattapoisett that included Harbormaster Steven Mach, Shellfish Constable Brian Nunes, Mattapoisett Boatyard owner Arthur McLean, Blue Water Yachts owner Jerry Stratton, Town Clerk Lois Ennis, Greer Ellis, interested citizen, and several other concerned residents. DeCosta said Mrs. Ennis presented to the state representatives a petition with 350 signatures of Mattapoisett residents who oppose the new regulations.

Selectman Frank Suzan noted it was not a hearing as the state did not give any information - it was just for taking depositions. Most of those attending were opposed to the proposal. The only group that appeared to be in favor was the Sierra Club, an environmental group. Suzan added, "It was very scary - the proposals sound vague, but very inclusive. There really should be

Before you can make good decorating decisions, you have to look beyond the contents of a room to the size and shape of the space it occupies. In this Southwestern great-room, the problem was too much space. But adding walls to separate the rooms would have destroyed natural airiness and fluidity. Instead, a series of platforms, textures and colors combine to define the space and create architectural drama. Contrasting hues of carpet form the boundary between the dining area and the media room, reinforced by the room divider. Stuccoed walls add textural interest as well as continuity. The result: a celebration of earthtones, Santa Fe accents, and space.

Chief James F. Moran said Officer Days has been a Reserve Officer since July 29, 1986, has passed all examinations and is EMT trained. He will replace Kenneth Pacheco, who recently resigned as a full-time officer.

RECEIVED from Tighe and Bond engineer Ron Michalski a clarification of the discussion held last week (February 24) with Selectmen, Finance Committee members, Treasurer and Town Accountant and himself on the financing for Mattapoisett's additional capacity in the expanded Wastewater Treatment Plant in Fairhaven.

Michalski recommended the town make available $2,500 to cover the expense of preparing the FmHA loan application. Once the application is submitted, Mattapoisett can expect a response within 4 to 6 weeks. Upon approval of the loan, the town cannot receive money before costs are incurred. In fact, an FmHA loan is usually processed when all costs for a project are finalized. In Mattapoisett's case, the town can expect to have to borrow money to make interim payments to Fairhaven as construction on the treatment plant proceeds. When the project is nearing completion, probably two or more years from now, Mattapoisett can then request the total loan from the FmHA. Mattapoisett can expect to incur short-term borrowing costs in anticipation of re-

Mattapoisett's Future

A BEDROOM OR COMMERCIAL TOWN?
reported by Virginia Arral

Of the 30 people who attended the Growth Management Study Committee meeting last Thursday (March 5) there was a feeling that much was accomplished in the open discussion on the town's growth but that there was much still to be done.

What do Mattapoisett residents want - a bedroom town or a commercial town, asked the leaders of the discussion. The consensus of those attending was to try to keep Mattapoisett as it is, mostly a bedroom town, with light business. However, most felt there needed to be some direction and planning to insure the growth is directed the right way.

Peter Kortright, chairman of the committee and the town's representative to Southeastern Regional Planning and Economic Development District (SRPEDD) and William Matthews, member of the town's Planning Board and its representative to SRPEDD, conducted the session following opening remarks by Selectmen Frank Suzan and James Huntoon.

Kortright said he welcomed the good turnout and said the committee was formed following last year's town meeting, and now is looking for feedback. He distributed a questionnaire in which was asked what residents felt was most needed in town and how they felt about present and past growth. A similar study was done by SPREDD in Lakeville, he said.

Tom Pisatoro, SRPEDD spokesman, said there is a lot of planning going on in southeastern Massachusetts now. In the 1960s planning money was available for studies, and now that it is needed not much is available. Mattapoisett has 40 hours in this fiscal year ending June 30, with another 40 hours available July 1, with fiscal 1988. Pisatoro said consulting firms are easier for town officials, but with local people participating, "you get a document you believe in, are involved in, and you can see the plan followed. This is a good approach", he added.

Following the discussions, the committee and Selectmen agreed the best way to proceed is to form a small core group to serve as volunteers who are willing to work on the planning structure. Assisting them will be sub-committees derived from those living in various areas with specific interests or expertise and town department employees.

Selectman Huntoon commented the town has problems in obtaining funds for capital equipment, schools, police, fire truck and other areas. He urged those with specific interests to volunteer their help.

Matthews said that as a member of the Planning Board he has often been asked the question why isn't this a function of the Planning Board? "We are tied up in administrative work and this project is more than our board can handle. No way will this study take away the authority of town boards. We want their input. There are a lot of people and departments in this town with a lot of savvy."

Matthews noted a Master Plan was compiled, believe it or not, 22 years ago, in April 1965, and took two years to complete. It was done mostly by an outside group working with the Planning Board. "We have grown considerably since then, and this time we want more town input."

Selectman Suzan said he was raised in Mattapoisett and it used to be a nice little town nobody knew about. After a Boston newspaper article years ago on Mattapoisett "we've grown. Summer cottages have been made into year-round homes - zoning and sewers have been put in place." He said that if sewers are expanded to Mattapoisett Neck, you would see a lot of growth. He noted the importance of our getting into Fairhaven's sewer treatment plant extension now.

Suzan also said one of his major concerns is for the young people - they cannot afford to buy a home in Mattapoisett. "Do we want less expensive homes for young people?", he asked. "Our waterfront is now a major concern. A high tech area was once proposed off North Street and that fell through. We missed the boat with Sippican that used to be in Mattapoisett; now Marion is reaping the benefits of its locating there. New people should get involved. I think the 'old townies' are becoming outnumbered by new people."

Comments from the audience:

--A former Hingham resident said she is appalled at what has happened with growth in Hingham. "I've been a resident of Mattapoisett for 26 years -- don't let this happen to Mattapoisett."

--Mattapoisett School Committee member Ellen Driscoll felt something should be done with the police station other than what has been proposed by moving the town hall offices into Center School. "We have had studies made that show Center School will still be needed. Also, we have many capital expenses that need to be addressed."

--Business owner Wayne Walega felt we should give the committee the best guidance we can. "A plan is important because growth is inevitable. This method is a design by the people and for the people." He added that the waterfront is one of our greatest assets and there should be a sub-committee for this area. He didn't feel the waterfront had changed much over the years but is used extensively.

--Board of Appeals member Sylvia Fales said "we often don't work together as a unit. We don't know why other boards (like the Planning Board and Health Board) make their decisions." She said, "I've talked with new people and they like the bedroom community - they are not looking for businesses." Matthews concurred with her opinion on the cooperation of boards.

--Robert M. Coquillette, Council on Aging Chairman, and member of the Police Station Evaluation Study Committee, said special interests can come into a town and get things changed at town meeting. "We want to restrict to allow clean business and not manufacturing." As a former resident of Lexington, he said "we need to make a decision as Lexington did, on what kind of town we want."

--A man said he came from the Boston area where money is no object to those wanting to buy waterfront land. "If we don't have a plan we are in trouble. It is frightening to hear some of the horror stories other towns with waterfront property have had with outside interests with unlimited funds."

--Greer Ellis, who has volunteered to serve on the committee, said "we need to preserve more recreation areas - not have any development on land saved for recreation." Joanna Duponte echoed Ellis' comments saying she would like to see the open space preserved and more recreational areas.

--Assessor Bruce Rocha said Sylvia Fales "hit the nail on the head about boards working together". The Selectmen talk about fees to raise money, but they should get together with the assessors. Summer people pay the same taxes but do not receive the same facilities. He noted the gas and electric company is the largest taxpayer in Mattapoisett.

Ned's Point will continue to be a problem and the situation could get worse if DEQE's waterway regulations go into effect. "We will have no local control then." Also, Suzan said with the DEQE making rules for our sanitary landfill, there may be some major changes in that area to watch.

Huntoon noted the Selectmen are considering making changes at the Veterans' Park in the layout to allow for more picnic area rather than just a drive-through.

Matthews summed up the situation saying, "There is no quick fix; it will require a lot of dedication and cooperation."

Questionnaire questions such as what do you like best about Mattapoisett? What should be done to maintain the quality of life? What do you see as the greatest problem facing Mattapoisett? What commercial uses would you like to see in Mattapoisett? Which ones discouraged? Sites you feel should be preserved? Your ideas or opinions in planning for Mattapoisett's growth? Kortright said a broader survey will be conducted at a later date, after the committee has had time to evaluate the opinions received at the meeting.

QUESTION:

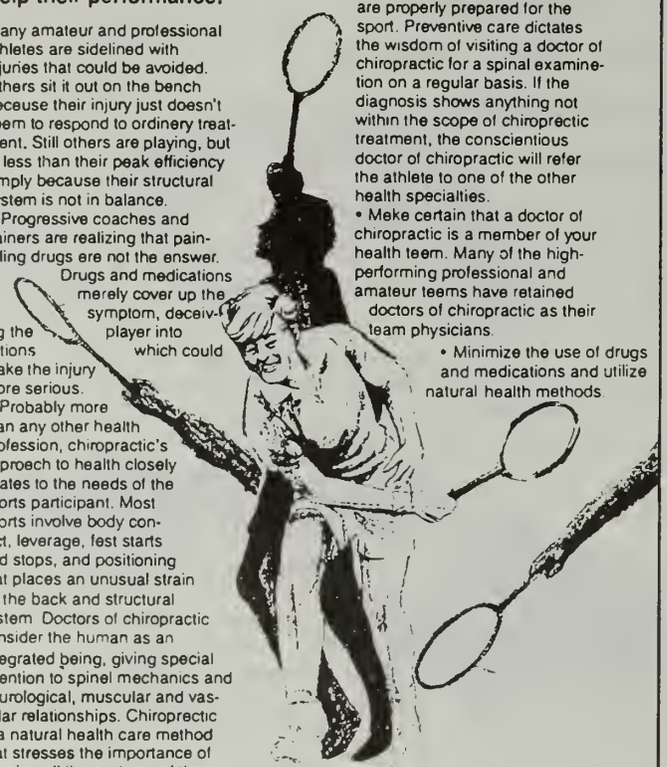
WHY SHOULD ATHLETES HAVE CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL MANIPULATION?

ANSWER: Because it can help their performance.

Many amateur and professional athletes are sidelined with injuries that could be avoided. Others sit it out on the bench because their injury just doesn't seem to respond to ordinary treatment. Still others are playing, but at less than their peak efficiency simply because their structural system is not in balance.

Progressive coaches and trainers are realizing that pain-killing drugs are not the answer. Drugs and medications merely cover up the symptom, deceiving the player into actions which could make the injury more serious.

Probably more than any other health profession, chiropractic's approach to health closely relates to the needs of the sports participant. Most sports involve body contact, leverage, fast starts and stops, and positioning that places an unusual strain on the back and structural system. Doctors of chiropractic consider the human as an integrated being, giving special attention to spinal mechanics and neurological, muscular and vascular relationships. Chiropractic is a natural health care method that stresses the importance of keeping all the systems of the body functioning efficiently, so the player enjoys peak performance, a minimum injury risk and fast recuperative powers.



Here's what you can do:

- Make certain that your athletes are properly prepared for the sport. Preventive care dictates the wisdom of visiting a doctor of chiropractic for a spinal examination on a regular basis. If the diagnosis shows anything not within the scope of chiroprectic treatment, the conscientious doctor of chiropractic will refer the athlete to one of the other health specialties.
- Meke certain that a doctor of chiropractic is a member of your health teem. Many of the high-performing professional and amateur teems have retained doctors of chiropractic as their team physicians.
- Minimize the use of drugs and medications and utilize natural health methods.

of in his hometown of Mattapoisett, both descriptively and disparagingly, according to Mr. Avila.

Mr. Avila said, "Two years ago my wife and I decided to search out the true story of this family.

"Many questions were asked of townspeople with many conflicting answers and stories. He was a whaling captain, an aetheist, a surveyor, a politician, a marine pilot, and a non-conformist.

"The search led us to the Registry of Deeds in Plymouth, Old Dartmouth Historical Society, New Bedford's Free Public Library's Genealogical Room, Rochester Town Hall, Chatham Town Hall, Falmouth Town Hall, Mattapoisett Town Hall, Mattapoisett Historical Society and Cushing Cemetery. Information was found in each of these organizations.

"With no surviving family members we can now relate the tale of this family's odyssey, separating fact from fiction and have compiled in book form the entire history of Captain Ansel Weeks' family, their accomplishments and tragedies, which will be placed in the Mattapoisett Historical Society's archives."

Fiddler on The Roof

...MARVELOUS ENTERTAINMENT .
DCJ

The cast from the Marion, Mattapoisett and Rochester school system along with interested community members took a well deserved bow to a standing ovation as they completed the final act at the opening night performance of "Fiddler on the Roof" on Friday evening. This was a performance which would have given a warm glow to seasoned actors and actresses. The fact that they were talented amateurs was just the frosting on the cake. The production was handsomely and cleverly mounted with some quick change turntable scenery that spun through no less than 10 different changes in the first act. It was very cleverly done so that exteriors revolved into interiors, entire sets sped off the stage to Gary Correia, in the lead as the dairyman Tevye, with five daughters, was nothing less than superb. In a role that required almost constant action upon the stage in singing, dancing and dramatic narrative, this central figure of Tevye carried the thread of the story flawlessly. All of the story is spun from this central character and the other actors were dependent upon this role to play off of and so enhance their own. Several well-known songs, "If I Were a Rich Man" perhaps the most catching of all, were Gary Correia's to sing and he did this and the rest with gusto and good voice.

This show is a lively vehicle. It is hard to choose a high spot because the entire first act sustains the action so well. The scene in the Inn with people of Anatevka joined by a most energetic group of Cossacks who leaped and spun like tops and swept the entire room up into a vortex of action, I would choose as one of the best. These young Cossacks in action were incredible. The three oldest daughters mopping the kitchen floor while singing Matchmaker were marvelous. Their song was melodious and at the same time they turned the floor into a mop ballet in a wonderful, effective the bedroom of the dairyman as he sought to explain a change of marriage plans to his wife. He conjured up the ghost of the butcher's wife, played by Kelli McSweeney, who swooped in much larger than life and scared the living daylights out of the conjurer. In an incredible bit of business Tevye slid under the bed with enough force to hit the wall and later rather desperately hugged his wife while both stood tall on the mattress trying to reach the level of the ghost who revolved around the room like a dervish.

Luice Moncevitch not only played the Matchmaker, but, with some great make-up and accent to match, she was transformed. This bent, dedicated crone was very amusing in her single-minded pursuit of a suitable match for the dairyman's daughters of whatever size, shape or age of male. Luice easily had the best Yiddish accent of the entire cast and had some great lines to show it off. One of the many high points of the performance was her comic scheming with Golde, the wife of Tevye, played by Vi Taylor, to find the perfect match.

The time of this story was set in pre-revolutionary Russia. Revolution was in the air and the scent was reaching even to this small village which prized its tradition above all else. The girls, daughters of tradition, were none-the-less on the dawn of a new and unfamiliar age in which love and marriage were the choice of the lovers themselves. This conflict between the old ways of their parents and the matchmaker, versus the boy and girl in love, is the pivot upon which the seesaw balances. In the end, the girls prevail. Tzeitel chooses the tailor Motel (David Boyce). The tailor, whose greatest dream beyond life with Tzeitel is a sewing machine, is nearly disqualified by the bargain her father makes with the older rich butcher, Lazar Wolf, played by Len Gonsalves, to betrothe Tzeitel to this rich cutter of meat who is lonely and "likes the dairman's daughter". The bargain is struck before the poor girl is aware she is the subject of the deal. The tailor is sincerely and humbly played by Boyce. "On the one hand" a bargain is a bargain. On the other hand there is daughter Tevye's happiness. On the other hand, the butcher likes the daughter. On the other hand, the daughter loves the tailor. The winner - the sincere tailor who wins both the girl and the sewing machine of his dreams. In like fashion, the second daughter Hodel falls for the teacher revolutionary and she eludes the determined matchmaker to join her intended in Siberia where he has been detailed indefinitely. She railroads off to be near the Gulag and there she lives in expectant happiness. Tevye's heart is really broken however when his third daughter, Chava, marries out of her faith by eloping with a Russian, and he declares she is now dead. However, in the final scene when the villagers are forced to leave their homes and she comes to say good-bye, he forgives her in his way by saying "God be with You".

The final scenes of "Fiddler" lean heavily to the tragic side of the coin as this close insular village is broken up by the Tzar's Cossacks who drive them from home to wander the world. The final scene is dramatically staged in slow motion and stop action.

Like life itself, the coin is flipped with gusto in this production. The bright side sparkling humor and love as it resolves in the sun; the dark side, dampening life's joy and at the same time forming the roots of the humor as a method to keep dispair at bay.

A bottle balancing act at the wedding, done wonderfully well in slow and intricate step, may originate from the history of a people living on the edge while dancing, so very carefully, to maintain a slender balance in the game of life as the coin spins light and dark.

Directors George T. Charbonneau and Armand R. Marchand were the workers of stage magic with this group and the result is pleasure in full measure for those who attended. In three dimensions the show was Class A entertainment.

Other members of the cast who did themselves proud were: Michelle Campbell, daughter Bilke; Steve Bernier, Perchik; Tom Grondski, Mordcha, the Innkeeper; Charles Tate, the Rabbi; Max Lewis, Mendel, the Rabbi's son; Girard Oliva, Avram, the bookseller; David Baker, Nahum, the beggar; Donna O'Neil, the ghost of Gramma Tzeitel; Paul Sardinha, Fyedka; Jeff Rodman, the constable; Jackie Demers, Shandel, Motel's mother; Tom O'Shaughnessy, Yussel, the hatmaker; Allison Taylor, the fiddler; and the villagers, Charles Beeghly, Penny Busher, Michelle Despres, Nicole Despres, Nancy Duggan, Leigh Gaspar, Kate Jack-

MV is scheduled for March 17th at ORR.

According to Mr. Cameron, Chess Team advisor for ORR, "We've had so many cancellations due to snow this year, we've got quite a back-log of matches. The players are a bit rusty with the continual lay-offs, but they'll be ready for MV. That will be the decisive match this season and don't count us out."

AMERICAN INVITATIONAL MATHEMATICS

Old Rochester Regional High School has had two students qualify for the American Invitational Mathematics Examination. This exam is the second level of the American High School Mathematics Examination and only the top one percent of the nearly 400,000 students taking this exam are invited to compete in the AIME.

Patrick Wetmore, a sophomore at ORR, was the top scorer with Erik Morris, a senior, a very close second and Lauri Lizotte, a freshman, third. This is the second consecutive year that Erik Morris has been invited to participate in the AIME. All three are members of the ORR Math Team with Erik Morris a senior captain.

Patrick and Erik will be taking the three hour AIME on Tuesday, March 24th, in hopes of advancing to the USA Mathematics Olympiad.

NATIONAL MIDDLE LEVEL EDUCATION WEEK

In order that the supportive Tri-Town community may become more aware of the important concerns of early adolescent education, the Old Rochester Regional Junior High School is joining middle level schools around the country in celebration of National Middle Level Education Week from March 8th through the 14th.

Parents and friends of junior high school students (Grades 7 and 8) are invited to visit the Junior High School any morning during the week to observe the school in operation. Displays of student work will be observable throughout the school and the welcome mat will be prominently evidenced.

The junior high school or "middle level" years are characteristically times when young people are no longer children, and they are not yet adults; they are truly "in the mid-le" in a whirl of excitement and mixed emotions. An understanding of the differences that exist among

SNOW WHITE & THE SEVEN DWARFS

TOP's Children's Theatre Workshop is presenting "Snow White & the Seven Dwarfs" on March 21st and 22nd at 1:30 p.m. at the Nemasket Grange Hall located on North Main Street in Middleboro; $3.00 for children and $4.00 for adults.

This delightfully funny retelling of the famous Grimm Fairytale is done in an active, visual way that is especially effective with audiences of all ages. There are all the characters you love: Snow White, the Seven Dwarfs, King Absent Minded, Bella, his new wife, part Queen-part witch, but far more funny than frightening; the Queen's servant is the frantic Maid Dim Witty, and the handsome and conceited Prince Goodhearter. There are some new characters too!

The two-act play by June Walker and directed by Peg Holzemer is sheer enjoyment and refreshing, so come on down to Theatre One and meet all the characters from the great forest. A great time for the family.

Further information on the play or the next Children's Theatre Workshops may be obtained by calling the theatre at 947-1880.

London-born George Shearing has created an international reputation for his musical talent as pianist, arranger and composer. Equally at home on the classical concert stage as on the jazz nightclub stand, consistently compelling with Quintet, Trio, Duo, Full Orchestra or in solo performance, Shearing is recognized for his inventive, orchestrated jazz.

Close friends, Torme and Shearing have performed together often in recent years. In 1983 the two recorded an album appropriately titled "An Evening with George Shearing and Mel Torme", in which Torme received a Grammy as Best Male Jazz Vocalist. In 1984 the two again recorded an album, "Top Drawer", with Torme again receiving a Grammy as Best Male Jazz Vocalist.

Leonard Maltin of "Entertainment Tonight" said it best: "Their range is so great, their versatility so complete and their interplay so mutually stimulating that they could never exhaust their creative energies for the next 50 years."

SPRING EVENTS ANNOUNCED

The Lloyd Center for Environmental Studies has announced its spring schedule of events, including the continuing series of Sunday weekly walks, a new slate of canoe trips, workshops and mini-courses, and several special events.

Upcoming in March are the following events: on March 15th from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., Lloyd Center caretaker and volunteer Robert Maker will lead a walk on "The Human and Natural History of New Bedford's Palmer Island". Mr. Maker is a dedicated bird enthusiast and a native of the area, and his knowledge of local history will highlight this weekly walk.

On Saturday, March 21st, from 6 to 8 p.m., the Lloyd Center presents the opening of its spring exhibit, "The Paskamansett/Slocum River - A Coastal Watershed". The exhibit will include historical and contemporary photographs, freshwater aquaria not normally seen at the Center, and maps of the watershed. Refreshments will be served.

Sunday, March 22nd, is the date for the "Lloyd Center Celebration

Tournament Bridge

DARTMOUTH BRIDGE CLUB

Local gold master point winners and survivors to the last round of the District-level qualifications for the Grand National Knock-out Team-of-Four finals held at the Marriot Motel in Westborough, Mass. on Saturday, February 28th, and Sunday, March 1st, was the team composed of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Holmes, Steve Myerson and Lynn Finley. After four afternoon and evening sessions of sustained and grueling bridge play against numerous other teams the Holmes team missed a first place overall win by a scant 3 points. The Holmes team did in fact defeat the overall winners in the final session of play, but due to a larger carry-over score from the third session, the overall winners emerged victorious.

Winners in the regular weekly bridge tournaments held last week at the Dartmouth Bridge Club are announced.

Monday evening, March 2nd, in the first of three Charity Tournaments for the benefit of the American Contract Bridge Club Charity Foundation, the North-South winners were George Riley and John Raber, first; Margaret Sullivan and William Noyes, second; Robert D'Anjou and Mark Gallagher, third.
